“Your bravery in considering adoption fills us with deep respect and admiration.”

family beyond biology

Jason's lifelong dream of becoming a dad has been the guiding light of our journey, despite his infertility due to a condition he was born with. When I (Christina) had to undergo an emergency hysterectomy our path became clearer—we knew adoption was our way forward.

Adoption has always been in our hearts, and we're excited to pour our love into a child who will be cherished beyond measure. We believe that love transcends biology, and we're ready to create a home filled with warmth, laughter, and endless affection. With our large and loving family, your child will be surrounded by adoring relatives ready to spoil them with love.

how we met

Our love story began in an unlikely setting: Jason worked for an armored car company, while I (Christina) worked at a children's hospital.

One day, I couldn't help but notice Jason's unusually cheerful demeanor, a stark contrast to the seriousness of his profession. Little did I know, Jason had overheard my observations and seized the opportunity to make a move. With a playful grin, he approached and delivered a cheesy line: "Have you ever smiled so hard your face hurts?" Despite the corniness, our connection was instant.

After exchanging numbers, Jason wasted no time calling that very evening. From there, our relationship blossomed quickly, and before we knew it, we were dating and then engaged.

Married that very summer, we have since enjoyed 12 wonderful years of marriage, filled with love, laughter, and unforgettable memories. Despite facing our fair share of struggles and health challenges along the way, our bond has only grown stronger with time.

Meet Jason

Hi, I'm Jason, born and bred in the beautiful state of Utah. By day, I'm a local truck driver, but I'm also an entrepreneur at heart.

Growing up, I developed a deep love for the great outdoors, thanks to my grandad who taught me everything from hunting to camping. When winter rolls around, you can find me snowshoeing or clearing snow with my trusty John Deere tractor.

In my free time, I get my hands dirty with woodworking and crafting custom leather goods. Oh, and did I mention I'm a movie buff? I can quote lines from any movie scene without skipping a beat.

"My husband is truly incredible, he's not only my partner but also my source of joy and laughter. He has this amazing ability to make any situation brighter with his fun-loving and goofy nature. Kids absolutely adore him, and he adores them back with his endless patience, kindness, and understanding. It's heartwarming to see him teaching them new things, from magic tricks to self-defense moves. Watching him with children gives me a glimpse of the amazing father he'll be, and I can't wait to see him thrive in that role."

Her laughter at my silly jokes is music to my ears, and her smile lights up my world. Watching her with our nieces and nephews, spoiling them with love, fills me with excitement for the amazing mother I know she'll be. I can't wait to see her embrace that role with all the grace and love she carries in her heart.”

Meet Christina

Hello! I'm Christina, originally from sunny California but now happily settled in Utah since 2009. After moving here, I pursued my education and proudly earned my bachelor's degree. Currently, I'm employed as a skills trainer at a dental school where I help train dental professionals.

When I'm not at work, you'll often find me soaking up the beauty of nature through hiking with our dogs. I'm always eager to pick up new skills, whether it's tending to our small summer garden or experimenting with cooking. Speaking of cooking, I absolutely love trying out different foods and frequently take classes to expand my cooking.

Traveling is a passion that lights up our lives! From the vibrant music scene of Nashville and the thrilling rides at Dollywood to the majestic landscapes of Colorado and the magical world of Disneyland, we've enjoyed incredible adventures. Cruising across oceans, exploring ancient temples, and navigating jungles on four-wheelers in Honduras have all been unforgettable experiences. Closer to home in Utah, we love hiking diverse trails and uncovering hidden gems. For us, traveling isn't just about seeing new places; it's about creating lasting memories and embracing new cultures wherever we go. We are excited to share this passion with our little ones, fostering their curiosity and sense of adventure from an early age.

Jason's Family

I grew up in a small, close-knit family with my younger brother, Casey. Our parents, Kathy and Scott, divorced when I was in my twenties, and both have since remarried —my mom to Lee and my dad to my stepmom, Jody. I was incredibly close to my grandparents, Marlow and Tascha, spending every waking moment with them. They recently passed away, but I hold dear the many skills my grandpa taught me, including hunting, fishing, and a deep love for the great outdoors. As kids, we were fortunate to have every toy imaginable, and I look forward to sharing these cherished toys with our future child.

My brother Casey is married to Amy, and they have three wonderful daughters. Kinsley, the oldest, is newly married to Bridger. Their middle child, Jade, is married to Drew, and they have two delightful kids, Beckham and Bobbi. The youngest, Sage, is in a relationship with Peter. Each member of my family brings unique joy and love to our lives, and I am excited to share this close-knit family experience with our future child.

Christina's Family

I come from a close-knit and affectionate family. My parents, Victor and Maria, divorced when I was nine, but they have maintained a strong and respectful relationship. I have a deep bond with my mom, who I talk to every day, and I aspire to be the type of mother she is.

As the second oldest of four siblings, I have a special connection with each of them. My older sister, Amalia, is married to Brent, after many years of infertility, they were blessed with a beautiful daughter, Charlotte. My younger sister, Linda, and I share a particularly special bond. She is married to Alden, they face their own fertility challenges and hope to adopt one day. The youngest of us is my brother Adan, he has two wonderful boys, Victor (named after our dad) and Joaquin.

I have a special bond with my grandmother, Alicia, and proudly embrace being “Grandma’s favorite” (a joke among all the cousins). Our tight-knit family has always been a source of love and support, shaping the person I am today.

our traditions...

We love celebrating holidays, and some of our favorite traditions revolve around these special times. The 4th of July is always a highlight, as we gather to watch spectacular firework shows. But our biggest and most cherished tradition is carving pumpkins with Jason's extended family every Halloween. We have a friendly competition to see whose pumpkin design is the best, and we enjoy dressing up in different costumes to add to the fun. Another beloved tradition is collecting Christmas ornaments that represent our favorite memories from the year, and we are excited to start an ornament collection for our little ones, creating new memories and traditions together.

our promise to you

We promise to love your child unconditionally and provide a home filled with warmth, security, and endless affection. We will ensure they know how amazing you are and honor the incredible love and strength it took for you to make this decision.

To ensure your presence remains a cherished part of their life, we plan to create a special book filled with stories, photos, and mementos that celebrate their unique story. As they grow, we will share this with them, helping them understand and cherish the special role you play in their life.

We are committed to instilling in them the core values that guide our lives—trust, honesty, respect, kindness, hard work, and integrity. We will support and encourage them every step of the way, helping them to become the best version of themselves.
